

Simpact3 is a management simulation that gives your company and its employees the insights they need to know more, create more, and do more.

Improve Your Impact

Simpact3 is our proprietary tool for identifying inhibitors and unlocking the potential within organizations and their people. Participants take on management roles in a simulated company and are challenged to create products, respond to changes in the market, and keep information, innovation, and implementation flowing, all while working to increase corporate profits. Facilitators from Impact3 guide participants through the simulation, facilitate “aha moments,” and identify innovators and high-potential individuals.

EQUIP

This simulation equips participants through self-discovery and collaboration. It provides opportunities to learn and practice new behaviors while considering how best to transfer that learning back to the everyday work environment.

IDENTIFY

Simpact3 provides opportunities for participants to innovate, think creatively, and figure out how to get the job done. With the help of our facilitators, your team will come to a greater realization of who its leaders and innovators are.

DIAGNOSE

Simpact3 brings inhibitors to the surface and allows participants to have constructive discussions that lead to real solutions. Facilitators empower participants to come to their own realizations and to apply their learning to the real world.
